Prior Art Citation

1. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kaku (2002/0034141) and Minabe et al. (2003/0227847), both disclose an optical disk apparatus capable of controlling the power for operating the optical disk apparatus.

Reasons For Allowance

The following is an Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance:

Re claims 1-5

The prior art of record alone or in combination does not teach or suggest the control circuit for an optical disk having the combination of element with recited function and arrangement, along with having:

a command generator unit, distributing an operation signal regardless of whether the computer host is at a power-on or power-off status;

a logic unit, coupled to the command generator unit through a system management bus to receive the operation signal and distribute a control signal in response to the operation signal;

a power supply control chip, respectively coupled with the command generator unit and the logic unit to provide required power for a normal operation of the command generator unit and the logic unit at a power-off status of the computer host;

wherein the optical record medium processing device automatically responds to the control signal and works correspondingly at both powered-on and power-off statuses of the computer host,
as set forth in claims 1-5.

Re claims 6-9

The prior art of record alone or in combination does not teach or suggest the method of controlling an optical recording medium having the combination of steps with their recited process, along with having the steps for:

receiving an operation signal by a command generator unit;
determining the power supply status of the computer host and distributing a control signal in response to the operation signal;
outputting a control signal to the optical record medium processing device from a logic unit, thereby the optical record medium processing device automatically responds to the control signal and works correspondingly,
as set forth in claims 6-9.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the Issue Fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the Issue Fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
